

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF VIRGINIA
Richmond Division

MEMORANDUM OPINION

This matter is before the Court on Defendant Terry B. Matthews's Motion to Dismiss the Indictment as Unconstitutional Under the Second Amendment and Bruen. Mot. Dismiss, ECF No. 14. Based on the Supreme Court's decision in N.Y. State Rifle & Pistol Ass'n v. Bruen, 597 U.S. 1 (2022), and the Supreme Court's recent application of Bruen in United States v. Rahimi, 602 U.S. 680 (2024), the Defendant challenges § 922(g)(1) on its face and as applied to him. For the reasons stated below, the Court rejects both of the Defendant's challenges and will deny his motion.

I. BACKGROUND

The Defendant was indicted on November 5, 2024, on one count of Possession of a Firearm by a Convicted Felon, in violation of 18 U.S.C. § 922(g)(1). Indictment, ECF No. 1. He had his initial appearance on November 15, 2024, and was arraigned on November 19, 2024. The Defendant's status as a convicted felon is not in dispute.

II. LEGAL STANDARD

Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 12 allows parties to “raise by pretrial motion any defense, objection, or request that the court can determine without a trial on the merits.” Fed. R. Crim. P. 12(b)(1). The Defendant here requests that the Court dismiss the indictment against him.

“An indictment may be dismissed if the statute on which the indictment is premised is unconstitutional.” United States v. Kearney, 2023 WL 3940106, at *1 (E.D. Va. June 9, 2023); cf. Fed. R. Crim. P. 12(b)(3)(B) (permitting a defendant to, before trial, file a motion alleging a “defect in the indictment”).

III. DISCUSSION

The Defendant argues that the statute upon which his indictment is premised, 18 U.S.C. § 922(g)(1), is unconstitutional on its face and as applied to him because it violates the Second Amendment under Bruen’s text-and-history test, as expounded upon in United States v. Rahimi.

Section 922(g)(1) reads, in relevant part:

It shall be unlawful for any person . . . who has been convicted in any court of, a crime punishable by imprisonment for a term exceeding one year . . . [to] possess in or affecting commerce, any firearm or ammunition.

18 U.S.C. § 922(g)(1).

The Defendant argues that Bruen and Rahimi establish that § 922(g)(1) regulates conduct covered by the “plain text” of the Second Amendment, meaning that § 922(g)(1) is “presumptively unconstitutional” under Bruen’s test. Mot. Dismiss 1–2, ECF No. 14. Among other textual arguments, the Defendant points to the Supreme Court’s rejection in Rahimi of the Government’s theory that Congress can disarm individual citizens because they are not “responsible,” arguing that the Supreme Court unanimously rejected the “law-abiding, responsible citizen” theory, thus including the Defendant among “the people” whose conduct the Second Amendment protects. Mot. Dismiss 7–9 (citing Rahimi, 602 U.S. at 701; id. at 774 (Thomas, J. dissenting)). Applying Bruen and Rahimi, the Defendant asserts that § 922(g)(1) is unconstitutional both facially and as applied here and moves the Court to dismiss the Indictment against him.

Both of the Defendant's challenges are squarely foreclosed by binding precedent. First, the Defendant's facial challenge is precluded by the Fourth Circuit's decision in United States v. Canada (Canada II), --- F.4th at ----, 2024 WL 5002188, at *2 (4th Cir. 2024).<sup>1</sup> There, the Fourth Circuit determined that § 922(g)(1) "remains facially constitutional after Bruen and Rahimi." United States v. Hunt, --- F.4th ---, 2024 WL 5149611, at *3 (4th Cir. 2024) (applying Canada II, --- F.4th at ----, 2024 WL 5002188, at *2). Because this Court is bound by Canada II, it summarily rejects the Defendant's facial challenge to § 922(g)(1).

Second, the Fourth Circuit's even more recent decision in United States v. Hunt, --- F.4th ----, 2024 WL 5149611 (4th Cir. 2024), forecloses the Defendant's as-applied challenge. In Hunt, the Fourth Circuit determined that § 922(g)(1) plainly passes constitutional muster, whether considered in light of the Fourth Circuit's own precedent or through application of Bruen's text-and-history analysis. Hunt, ---F.4th at ----, 2024 WL 549611, at *4–5. This is the same conclusion reached by this Court in its very first decision on a Bruen-based motion to dismiss, in United States v. Lane, 689 F. Supp. 3d 232 (E.D. Va. 2023). Notably, the Fourth Circuit in Hunt made explicit that its conclusion rested on the felony status of the defendant—not the particulars of the underlying conviction. Hunt, --- F. 4th at ----, 2024 WL 5149611, at *7 ("[T]here is no need for felony-by-felony litigation regarding the constitutionality of § 922(g)(1)." (quoting United States v. Jackson, 110 F.4th 1120, 1125 (8th Cir. 2024))). Accordingly, for the reasons this Court articulated in Lane and similarly for those the Fourth Circuit articulated in Hunt, § 922(g)(1)

<sup>1</sup> The Fourth Circuit first decided Canada in June of 2024. United States v. Canada (Canada I), 103 F.4th 257 (4th Cir. 2024). On November 4, 2024, however, the Supreme Court vacated the Fourth Circuit's decision, "for further consideration in light of United States v. Rahimi." Canada v. United States, --- S. Ct. ----, 2024 WL 4654952 (Mem.) (2024). On December 6, 2024, the Fourth Circuit decided Canada II, the iteration of Canada upon which this Court now relies. Therein, the Fourth Circuit determined that its previous decision in the matter fully complied with Rahimi, and, as such, "re-adopt[ed] and re-issue[d]" its previous decision. Canada II, 2024 WL 5002188, at *1. Canada II (and by extension, Canada I) is, accordingly, binding upon this Court.

unequivocally survives the Defendant's as-applied challenge. And because this Court is bound by Hunt, it cannot entertain the Defendant's as-applied challenge to § 922(g)(1).

IV. CONCLUSION

For the reasons detailed above, the Court rejects both the Defendant's facial and as-applied challenges to § 922(g)(1). Accordingly, the Defendant's Motion to Dismiss will be denied. An appropriate Order shall issue.
